CRACK SHOT

Gov. Willson's Private Secretary Beats Them All.

London, Ky., Aug. 20.—Capt. Jackson Morris, of Frankfort, private secretary to Gov. Willson, who made the highest score of all those who competed for places on the Kentucky team to the national shooting tournament at Camp Peary, O., is probably the best all-round shot in Kentucky. He and eleven other Kentuckians are at Camp Peary attending the tournament. He has won scores of medals in some of the most important matches in the country.

Capt. Morris was born in Breathitt county, where he was reared. He has held many important positions. He was assistant secretary of state until recently, when he resigned to take the appointment as secretary to the Governor. Hunting, fishing and target shooting are his hobbies. He is well known and very popular.

THE RACE IN NEBRASKA

Indications Are That Dahlgren's Majority is 1,000.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 20.—Although Gov. Shallenberger has not as yet conceded his defeat for the Democratic nomination for the head of the State ticket, a telegram was received here from one of his campaign managers, Chris Grunther, vice chairman of the Democratic State committee, giving up the fight. Mayor Dahlgren's majority has been considerably reduced from first estimates, but will apparently be not far from 1,000 votes.

Complete returns from fifty-one counties give Congressman Hitchcock for United States Senator on the Democratic ticket a two-to-one majority over both his opponents and more than three times the vote of his nearest competitor, Richard L. Metcalfe.

Late returns from the Republican primaries only increase the lead of Aldrich over Cady for Governor. With but 300 precincts to hear from Aldrich's lead is more than 3,000.

Wall Street's Discontent.

Wall Street estimates that approximately $500,000,000 will be spent this year by Americans for the purchase of automobiles. Of this vast sum probably 85 per cent will be for machines of domestic make, the only foreign product in which will be rubber for the tires, of which about $75,000,000 will be used.

It is computed by statisticians of New York's financial district that half of this outlay would be used for stock market speculation but for the nation wide craze for "joy cars." With such an enormous amount of money diverted from stock trading channels conditions in The Street are now akin to those that prevailed during the 1907 panic. In six months there has been a shrinkage of $150,000,000 in the market value securities dealt in upon the stock exchange, due mainly to the lack of public support. The lambs, always a fruitful source of revenue for the wily bulls and bears, no longer gambol with their old abandon and have become as scarce as hen's teeth about Wall, Nassau and Broad streets. All that are left are the professional traders to whom the limited pickings are not over attractive.

In the hope of checking the spread of the automobile tide, the assistance of local bankers has been enlisted. The latter are now vociferously depreciating the mania. They claim it is inoculating the small business men of the country as well as the affluent merchants of the city, and that in order to gratify their appetite for machines this class is mortgaging its homes and property. This cry of alarm however is not borne out by the mortgage records which show but a normal state of borrowing on real estate. Neither do the reports of the clearing house indicate that bank deposits are being appreciably withdrawn to enable customers to buy machines. What money is being used by the public for the purchase of cars is its surplus cash which in other years found its way into stock exchange houses for less exhilarating employment. This is the money that created inflated and fictitious markets and enabled the gamblers of the street to live in opulence while their clients grew two gray hairs where there was one before.

Throughout the financial district, especially among those who depend upon the outside public for their business, there seem to be a disposition to deplore the recent purchase by J. Pierpont Morgan of the controlling interest in one of the largest of the domestic automobile factories. They think it will have a bad effect on the market and help to retard the return of prosperity in The Street by giving undue prestige to the industry to whose development they attribute most of their troubles. Their chagrin recalls the feeling existing in the district some years ago during one of the intermittent periods of depression to which it is subject, when John D. Rockefeller instead of supporting a declining market dumped several of his millions into the stock of the quick lunch restaurants of the big eastern cities, which have since netted him handsome profits.

In reply to Wall Street's lament about the diversion of money from the stock market, the president of one of the large automobile companies this week threw a jolt into the enemy's camp in a statement saying that the public had grown tired of frittering away its savings in Wall Street gambling that rarely netted it anything but headaches and insomnia, and had determined to get some wholesale pleasure out of its cash through the purchase of machines that would enable them to give enjoyment and recreation to others as well as to themselves.

KENTUCKY PHYSICIAN

Has Claim on $25,000 Property in Germany.

Louisville, Ky., August 21.—Dr. Ernest Morawek, formerly a well known physician of Louisville, has fallen heir to a villa in Germany worth $25,000 under circumstances so unusual that he is meeting some delay in getting possession of the property. Dr. Morawek was in Europe last year, and while returning on the steamer in the fall he became acquainted with Mrs. Raas, a wealthy German widow, who was coming to America to visit her brother and travel through the country. Mrs. Raas, who was an elderly woman, was so pleased with Dr. Morawek that when she took a trip through the country he went as her companion, and on their return stopped at Dr. Morawek's place in Meade county, Ky. There Mrs. Raas died in April of heart trouble and complications. Dr. Morawek produced a codicil to the will, the original being in Germany. This codicil left Dr. Morawek her villa in Germany and directed that her body be cremated and the ashes taken back to Germany and placed beside the body of her husband. The remains were cremated and Dr. Morawek took the ashes to Germany and offered the codicil. The heirs in Germany object to it, and an international legal battle is promised.

12-YEAR-OLD HEROINE

Saves Life of Drowning Man and Receives Medal.

Culver, Ind., Aug. 19.—By saving the life of F. Thompson, of Atlanta, Ga., while both were swimming in Lake Maxinkukee to-day, twelve-year old Isabelle Fuller, daughter of E. R. Fuller, of Richmond, Va., became the heroine of the cottagers of the summer resort.

Thompson is an expert swimmer, but was seized with cramps when he was 300 feet from a pier. The little girl, also an adept, was swimming near him. When she saw he was sinking she quickly swam to him and supported him until a boating party came to their rescue.

In the presence of hundreds of visitors and the entire cadet corps of the Culver summer naval school drawn up on the campus this afternoon, Miss Fuller was presented with a gold medal by the academy through the commandant, as a recognition of her courage.

LEADER SOLD

Richard Forbes the Purchaser—May Be Daily.

Princeton, Ky., Aug. 21.—The Princeton Leader, for the past several years owned and operated by Catlett Bros., has been purchased by Richard D. Forbes, of Quarryville, Pa. The new owner will take charge of the paper September 1, and will continue to conduct it as a twice-a-week Democratic paper. It is understood that Mr. Forbes contemplates turning the paper into a daily within a few months. He had been negotiating for the purchase of the paper for several weeks, and upon his arrival in Princeton several days ago, was impressed with the plant and the opportunity presented in Princeton for a hustling daily paper, and the negotiations were immediately closed. The former owners of the Leader were State Senator J. R. Catlett and George F. Catlett. The latter will remain with the paper under terms agreed upon between him and Mr. Forbes.
